RESPONSE

This Response is in reply to the Office Action mailed July 3, 2002, in the subject application. In response to the Office Action, please amend the above-identified application as follows.

REMARKS

The applicants appreciate the Examiner's thorough examination of the application and requests reexamination and reconsideration of the application in view of the following remarks.

The Examiner rejects claims 22-69 under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,321,503 in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,135,030 to Besaw.

The Examiner states that U.S. Patent No. 6,321,503 shows all of the claimed limitations except for the first tube being made of layers of material, an electrical conductor disposed in the tube, at least one transducer device located proximate a hinge area, and a second tube disposed inside the first tube. The Examiner further states that Besaw shows a tube made of layers of material, and a first tube disposed inside the first tube.

The present invention is directed to a foldable member comprising at least a first tube made of layers of material, at least one predetermined hinge area along the length of the first tube, and a plurality of opposing elongated slots in the tube through the layers of material forming separated longitudinal strips of layers of tube material between the slots which fold when subjected to localized buckling forces as claimed in claim 1.

Besaw is directed to a corrugated pallet and corrugated support members and related to pallets upon which materials are stacked for storage and transportation. Besaw discloses a corrugated pallet 104 having longitudinal leg-wrap support members 106 extending the entire length of corrugated pallet 104. However, the support members 106 of Besaw are not foldable members. In fact Besaw specifically states that an object of the invention is to construct a pallet that will sustain loads to which it is subjected and not fold or bend sideways in movement or shipment, Col. 2, lines 4-6 of Besaw. Besaw specifically teaches away from a support member which folds. Accordingly, there would be no motivation to combine any feature of Besaw with that of U.S. Patent No. 6,321,503 as the purposes and objectives of the respective devices are exactly the opposite of each other. One of ordinary skill in the art would not look at a rigid, non-folding support member to modify a device which is designed to fold.

Accordingly, applicant submits that claims 22-69 are patentable over the cited references.

Each of the Examiner's rejections has been addressed or traversed. Accordingly, it is respectfully submitted that the application is in condition for allowance. Early and favorable action is respectfully requested.

If for any reason this Response is found to be incomplete, or if at any time it appears that a telephone conference with counsel would help advance prosecution, please telephone the undersigned or his associates, collect in Waltham, Massachusetts, (781)890-5678.

Respectfully submitted,

Jason D. Shanske
